

Thank you to The Journal of International and Prospective Studies' peer reviewers in 2025

The Editorial Board of the Journal of International and Prospective Studies would like to express its sincere gratitude to the reviewers who have generously contributed their time, expertise, and critical insight over the past year.

Peer review is a cornerstone of academic publishing and essential to ensuring the rigour, relevance, and quality of the research we publish. The commitment and thoughtful evaluations provided by our reviewers help us uphold high scholarly standards and support authors in strengthening their work. We deeply appreciate the careful and constructive feedback you have offered, often on short notice and with great professionalism. Your contributions are vital to advancing interdisciplinary dialogue in international relations and prospective studies.

Thank you for being part of our scholarly community and for supporting the growth of JIPS.

Rónel Solís (University of Panama, Panama)
Mohamed-Badine El Yattoui (National Defence College, UAE)
Pablo Pareja Alcaraz (Pompeu Fabra University, Spain)
Banyu Perwita Anak Agung (Indonesian Defense University, Indonesia)
Youssef El Hamdouni (Abdelmalek Essaâdi University, Morocco)
Nouha Benjelloun Andaloussi (Korea University, South Korea)
Ahmad Iraki (ESCA School of Management, Morocco)
Siham Zebda (Cadiz University, Spain)
Nasser Bouchiba (Sun Yat-sen University, China)
Jamal Ait Laadam (Jilin University, China)
Axel Dessen (King's College London, England)
Zeno Leoni (King's College London, England)
Yousra Hamdaoui (Hassan II University, Morocco)
Oumar Kourouma (Abdelmalek Essaâdi University, Morocco)
Shaimaa Magued (Cairo University, Egypt)
Lili Mottaghi (World Bank)
Vanesa Menéndez Montero (Humboldt University of Berlin, Germany)
Juan José Ruiz (University of Jaén, Spain)
Fatima Zahra Sahli (Ibn Tofail University, Morocco)
Nasma Irakrak (University of Seville, Spain)
Yasmine Hasnaoui (American International University, Kuwait)
Isaac Caro (Alberto Hurtado University, Chile)
Hanae Trola Skall (University of Cádiz, Spain) 